

Luxembourg School for Commerce: helping companies

The LSC was set up to better meet the training needs of businesses and individuals in what has become a very competitive market. It works closely with businesses and training organisations on an international level, and provides customised corporate training through its LSC Inhouse programme. The school sees a lot of demand for its language courses, especially Luxembourgish, and its new human resources training courses. Perennial favourites are courses in accounting and finance, and entrepreneurial training. Businesses are increasingly asking the LSC for customised training, and there is more demand for improving management and leadership soft skills. The LSC is constantly developing new programmes, and will launch a new course in leading strategies, in cooperation with HEC Paris; a programme in corporate social responsibility with INDR and an online course for designated health and safety workers.
